SLOW WORK. niversaries-Navy-Yard

Notes-Briefs. ondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

Norrola, December 5, 1887.

Yesterday another expedition of the Baker Salvage Company, consisting of the ocean-tug Samson and three schooners, with Mr. George McBlair, the secretary, in charge, left here for the wreck of the British steamship Kimberly, on Currituck beach. All the cargo will have to be taken out and the ship light-ened before she can be gotten off, as she draws twenty-three feet of water and there is only twelve feet around her. On account of leaking it is thought the 30,-00 bushels of grain will be totally lost. The Kimberly is one of the largest cotton-ships ever built.
One of the crew, who was disabled, has been brought here to St. Vincent's Hospital. The others remain at the life saving station, where they are cared for. The captain and two mates are on board keeping the pumps going. Captain James W. Gerow is on the beach as agent of Vice-Consul Myers. The sea increased last night in consequence of squally weather, and to-day the wreckers cannot work. The weather is clearing, however, and operations will not be suspended very long.

and galleries were newly carpeted, and the desks glistened in their coat of varnish, the odor of which mingled faintly with that of bouquets and gorgeous floral devices which enlivened the picture. The senator most favored in the matter of flowers was Mr. Daniel, of Virginia, The devices were all of mammoth proportions and covered not only his desk and chair, but overlapped upon the desks of his neighbors. A large horseshoe, a ladder of half a dozen rounds, and a shield comprising the coat-of-arms of Virginia, were chief among the pieces. Senator Riddleberger's desk bore a harp with the compliments of the Clan Na Gael, of Philadelphia.

Senator Gorman was the recipient of a horseshoe upon an easel.

The desks of Senators Scarrick, Beek, Paddock, Stewart, Manderson, and Palmer, and that of the President of the Senate, were also claborately adorned with flowers in various unique and tasteful forms.

the Senate taking this occasion to exchange greetings and compare notes.

The chief topic of conversation with the majority was the prospect of a conflict over the admission of certain Democratic senators-elect, and it early became known that the Republicans, in default of any caucus plan of action, had concluded to follow the lead of their members of the Committee on Privileges and Elections. There had been an informal consultation, it was understood, and Elections. There had been an informal consultation, it was understood, and had reached the conclusion to make no opposition to the admission of Mr. Turpie, of Indiana, but to object to the admission of Mr. Faulkner, of West Virginia, on the ground that there were conflicting credentials from that State.

The galleries were early crowded and to overflowing. Mrs. Cleveland, clad in a costume of dark green, and accompanied by Mrs. Gilder, Mrs. Kingsford, and several other lady friends, occupied seats reserved for the family of the President in one of the private galleries.

The diplomatic gallery was filled by members of the various legations, the front seat being occupied by the Chinese Minister, his secretary, and associates. The Minister wore a magnificent robe of light-blue satin, and his companions were clad as richly though in more subdued colors.

The proceedings of the day were opened with prayer by the Chaplain, Hev. J. G. Butler. Heasked that the senators might be endowed with wisdom and ing responsibilities of the day and all duties that gather around them.

The President of the Senate, Mr. Ingalls, then took the chair and called the Senate to order. He said he would now place before the Senate the certificates of election, the certificates of appointment, and other papers received since the adjournment.

The following papers were thereupon submitted and read: Certificate of the Governor of Florida making temporary appointment of J. J. Finlay as senator from the 4th of March, 1887, until the Legislature should fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of

Senator Jones; the certificate of the Governor of Florida of the election by the Legislature of Samuel Pasco; the certificate of the Governor of New Jersey of the election of Rufus Blodgett; that of the Governor of West Virginia Probable Loss of Her Wheat-Pastoral Anof the appointment by him of Daniel
B. Lucas to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of Senator Camden, and of the Governor of West Virginia containing the summary of the proceedings by which the Legislature in special session elected Charles J. Faulk-ner as senator to fill the vacancy; the credentials of William E. Chandler, of

New Hampshire.
The protest of Daniel B. Lucas against the administration of the oath of office to Charles J. Faulkner was also presented. The grounds of the protest are—first, that the Executive of the State of West Virginia has not certified the election of Charles J. Faulkner under the seal of the State as required by the act of Congress; second, for the reasons set out in the brief of Daniel B. Lucas-a copy of which accompanied the protest; third, because Charles J. Faulkner was at the time of his alleged election, on the 5th of May, 1887, judge of the Thirteenth judicial district of West Virginia, and therefore ineligible to the office of senators was then proceeded with, such senators being called in parties of four and in alphabetical order. The first four senators thus called and sworn (in all instances with uplifted hand and not on the Bible) were Aldrich, Bate, Blodgett, and Chandler. The second four were Cockrell, Daniel, Davis, and Dawes.

Senate that the matter should receive the immediate attention of the committee, so that if the gentleman was found to be entitled to his seat he could enter upon his duties without unnecessary delay.

Senator Kenna said that the course proposed by the Senator from Massachusetts seemed eminently appropriate, and he trusted it would be followed without the formality of a vote.

This course was followed, and the call of senators-elect proceeded. The oath was administered to Mr. Turpie, of Indiana, and he was admitted to his seat All papers in the case were referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elec-The oath was then administered to the remainder of the senators. At the suggestion of Mr. Vest the privileges of the floor were given to Mr. Faulkner pend-ing the decision of the contest. Long before the hour of noon the gal leries of the House were crowded to their utmost capacity with spectators drawn together to witness the opening scenes of a new Congress. Ladies were in the majority, and their gay costumes lent an air of animation to the chamber. On the floor the members congregated and exchanged greetings and congratulations. There were very few floral decorations upon the desks of members, though Mr. T. J. Campbell, of New York, was favored with a horseshoe of carnations and roses, the gift of the Oriental Club, of New York. At noon the Clerk of the House called Nonrolk, December 5.—Six of the crew of the wrecked steamship Kimberly were brought to this city to-day over the Norfolk Southern road and four of them were sent to the St. Vincent Hospital for treatment, one having a dislocated shoulder, one having been struck on the head with the shot by which a line was fired to the vessel, one having sore eyes from the effects of sand and salt water, and one suffering from fever.
